Specialty Bearded Irises Arrive in August

By Cody Hoya, General Manager and Iris Fanatic

Our specialty bearded iris collection presents an opportunity for experienced collectors and new gardeners alike. If you currently grow bearded iris, you probably love them for their evergreen, drought-tolerant foliage, luxurious spring blooms and easy care attitude. If you don't have any in your garden, consider one (or more!) of the following to add some 'wow' factor to any sunny garden location with good drainage:

If you're craving a bold statement, consider 'Gypsy Lord,' a tall variety reaching up to 40" in bloom with up to 9 blossoms per stem. Connoisseurs of form, color and style will appreciate this luxuriously colored specimen. 'Harvest of Memories' offers vivid, golden yellow blossoms on another tall variety. The brightly ruffled flowers are plentiful on each stem, and it has a strong tendency to rebloom. For those seeking something smaller,

'Concertina' is an intermediate variety that reaches just 27" in bloom and offers a peachy, rose-pink bloom with striking blue-lavender beards. If you're in search of a specialty hybrid that's a truly unique jewel, 'Renown' delivers billowy white blossoms lightly dusted with pale peach and golden yellow. It boasts a sweet fragrance and is a strong rebloomer. See these and many more arriving at NHG in early August. Iris rhizomes are easy to plant, easy to care for, and provide decades of luxurious bloom with minimal input.

Create Your Own Butterfly Retreat

Native Texas wildflowers support butterflies and other important pollinating insects. The best time to plant their seed is in August, so here are some tips for starting your own patch:

Choose a spot that has full sun (at least six hours). Prepare your site by removing any existing grass or vegetation and raking the soil clean. It's not necessary to amend the soil; the key is seed-to-soil contact.

Lightly scatter seeds over the soil by hand. If the seeds are very small, mixing them with a lightweight carrier such as coarse sand can help distribute them evenly. You can also turn a light leaf rake over and carefully draw it across the area. Wildflowers require minimal maintenance, but appreciate light waterings while getting established. Be on the lookout for invasive weeds and grasses, such as Bermuda, that can smother your planting. Remember to allow the flowers to go to seed and let the seeds ripen and dry before you mow or remove any spent plants. This way, your wildflowers will spread and return each year on their own.

Try a wildflower patch this year; you'll be so glad you did!

Native grasses as a lawn? Absolutely!

By Sandi Schwedler, TMCNP Senior Buyer & Gallery Curator

A lot of time and money is spent mowing, watering, fertilizing and spraying non-native lawns, and with our tough summer dry spells and increasing watering restrictions, homeowners are having trouble keeping up. Interested in an alternative? Short, native bunch grasses (Buffalograss, Blue Grama and Curly Mesquite) can be combined to create a lawn that, once established, will thrive on as little as 5"-12" of rain per year. One of our favorite Texas seed suppliers, Native American Seed, has developed such a mixture that they call 'Thunder Turf.' Thunder Turf creates a low-growing mat of grasses that you'll only need to mow in early spring—just once per year. It will naturally go dormant in the summer and green up again when fall rains come. It requires no fertilization whatsoever, and actually thrives on neglect. NHG carries this seed mix in several sizes to suit a variety of turf conversion projects. Pictured left is the landscape of the George W. Bush Presidential library, where this grass mixture was used right here in Dallas—and as you can see, it's thriving! If you're interested in transforming your lawn, come in and speak to a garden advisor to get started.
