Water Garden Weekend

Bring the magic of water into your garden! North Haven Gardens is excited to once again host this year's Dallas Koi Auction on Saturday, May 13th as part of our Water Gardening Weekend.

Live demos will show you how easy it is to add the sound of fountains, the flash of colorful fish, the vibrancy of flowers and the dramatic contrast of foliage to any garden space.

The Dallas Koi Kichi Group will sponsor a free auction of high quality koi, hand-picked by its members. This exciting live event features koi from Japan. Bring along a container to take your koi home.

The Bonsai Society of Dallas extends our water gardening theme to include the art of Asian inspired gardens with members giving ongoing demonstrations on the basics of bonsai. Learn pruning techniques, tips on container selection and have your questions answered.

North Texas Water Gardening Society (NTWGS) will offer demonstrations on the principles of water gardening, how to create a small water garden feature, potting water plants, and of course the excitement of adding fish!

Visit The Café at NHG to see Koi-themed artwork, including those pictured here and others, on display through the month of May.

SAVE THE DATE: Don't miss this year's NTWGS 25th Annual Tour of Ponds, June 10-11.

The Pond Tour Guide, with complete maps and pond locations, goes on sale May 10th at NHG.

Detail of 'Lady in the Red Pod' by Katherine Baronet

I saw Katherine Baronet's works when I first visited her studio in the Continental Gin Building last year and fell in love with the juxtaposition of the graphite drawings with the rich, colorful acrylics. The boldness of her graphic interpretation of botanical images inspired the theme for this show.

Katherine was born in Richmond, Virginia, and had a 20-year career as a fashion model, which took her to many countries in Europe and Japan. She went on to complete her Bachelor's Degree in Communications Arts from East Texas A&M in Commerce in 1995. After graduating from college, Baronet worked as a graphic designer and art director for Neiman Marcus and David Carter Design Studio while painting in her own studio. Her work has been exhibited in numerous gallery, group and solo shows over the past 20 years. Her paintings are in both private and corporate collections, including the Hilton Anatole Hotel and the Children's Hospital in Dallas. She is currently working in the healing arts as the Artist-in-Residence at Methodist Richardson Cancer Center, and working on a new series of large graphite drawings. Most recently, she has been selected to be in Craighead Green Gallery's New Texas Talent show. We encountered Elizabeth Schowachert's works while visiting Artisan's Collective Gallery in the Bishop Arts district. Organic shapes and forms are almost always present in Elizabeth's work, whether she is working with encaustic medium or ink on paper. I had visited previously with artists Susan Kaiser and Camilla Cowen, and after the show concept began developing around my impressions from Katherine's studio, I knew this would be an inspiring collection of bold, inspiring works rich in color and texture.
