The Season for Celebrating

The season for celebrating is upon us! We're continuing to work with a small, family-owned farm in Washington state to procure the finest Christmas trees each year. In addition to our fresh offerings, we've sourced some unique treasures for the gardeners and lovers of nature on your list. Here are some favorites:

Vessels with original insect artwork by Laura Zindell Designs: These handmade ceramics are functional works of art, crafted from earthenware and glazed with non-toxic, low-fire glazes. Laura's designs are inspired by the natural spaces around her Vermont studio and make a dramatic statement.

Notecards and paper placemats with whimsical animal and garden party themes by Hester & Cook. According to artist Vicki Sawyer, while out on a walk, she thought: "If birds can build nests, they could make hats!" We love the results of her inspiration.

For the serious gardener, there's nothing better than finely-crafted tools. These heirloom-quality hand tools by Joseph Bentley are forged in stainless steel with traditional styling—and make a perfect gift for your favorite gardener. We'll have a variety of unique color containers, drop-ins ready to go in your sun or shade pots, or speak with us to have a custom planting done in your favorite planter. We're looking forward to seeing you!

Take a Closer Look:

We observe the natural world around us for artistic inspiration, but for the works in this collection, the Texas Jewish Artist Association went deeper: focusing more tightly on fine—and sometimes, microscopic—details within the landscapes that inspire them. The result is a collection of voices interpreting the natural world in a truly unique and varied way.

Join us for the opening reception to view the latest collection and meet the artists in person.
